

Flowerpot Angels

1. Draw face on wooden bead, making sure that the hole is at the top/bottom (not sideways).
2. Take one end of silver cord, fold approx. 1" back and pinch fold to make as thin as possible. Push folded end through loop on top of a silver bell. Knot the end of the cord securely to the bell. Do the same with the other end through the second bell. Trim any extra cord beyond the knots.
3. Take the silver wire and tightly secure one end around the middle of the bell cord, creating a clump of wire around the cord. Then poke the other end of the wire up through the upside-down flowerpot – the wire should not come all the way through as the clump will be too big to fit through the hole.
4. Take the wooden bead (with the face on it) and poke the wire into the hole at the bottom and out through the top, making sure the face is the right way up!

5. You need to secure the wire now so that it doesn't slip back down through the bead and pot. Pull the wire taut and then use your finger to press a bend or kink into the wire just where it comes out of the top of the bead. After this small bend the wire should continue to stick straight up.
6. Fashion the remaining wire into a horizontal halo, tucking the end in around the loop.
7. Cover the top of the bead 'head' with UHU and pile curly hair onto the glued area, securing it on the top in the glue and letting some ringlets cascade down the sides.
8. Stick a glue dot to the middle of the back of the flowerpot and stick the middle of the pipecleaner to it, so that the ends reach round to the front of the angel as arms – you can bend the tips to form hands if you wish.
9. Stick another glue dot over the pipecleaner at the same place and attach the stalks of the feathers. These should face out and curve towards front of angel, to create wings.
10. Stick another glue dot on the little wooden heart and attach to the front of the flowerpot.
